

Pinkie Pie wasn't usually a jealous person, and she took pride in it. Nothing upset her, nothing made her act... well... act unlike a Pinkie Pie. A Pinkie Pie is what she was, and she loved being one. The only one, as a matter of fact.

Another thing she took pride in.

However, there was one pony in all of Equestria that was able to mess that up, and make Pinkie Pie feel like she wasn't a Pinkie Pie at all. Like she was just... A Pinkie. Or just a Pie. Not a Pinkie Pie. It frightened her. Being a Pinkie Pie was all she knew, and she didn't think she could learn to be just a Pinkie, or just a Pie.

Today was one of those days. That one special pony, was making Pinkie Pie feel like she wasn't a Pinkie Pie.

Pinkie Pie trudged throughout Ponyville, a heavy sigh escaping her. She heard hoofsteps and looked up when her friend caught up to her. Twilight Sparkle grinned sympathetically, her purple eyes shining

"What's wrong Pinkie Pie?"

"Dashie is with the Wonderbolts again"

Twilight frowned

"Again?"

Pinkie nodded

"Yes again. And I'm scared"

"Why?"

"What if she stops loving me? What if she falls for one of the Wonderbolts, and suddenly I'm not good enough for her? I'll never be a Pinkie Pie again. I'll just be a Pinkie. Or a Pie" the pink pony sighed in distress

"Pinkie I'm sure that won't happen. Dash loves you, and she wouldn't do that. She works with them, I'm sure she's just glad they're letting her fly"

"I guess" the pink pony sighed

"Besides, even though she is pregnant, she still needs exercise, and the Wonderbolts love taking her out for that"

Pinkie Pie nodded slowly, and out of nowhere Rainbow Dash landed right in front of her

"Hey Pinkie" she greeted, leaning over and nuzzling her lover "How are you feeling?"

"Much better now that you're here Dashie" the pink pony replied, immediately perking up "How are you feeling?"

"I'm alright" she paused "I have to go back up there, there's more clouds to clear. I'll be home soon though"

She leaned forward and captured Pinkie's lips in a loving kiss

"Bye Pinkie Pie" she beamed as she shot off into the sky "I love you!"

"I love you too Rainbow Dash!" Pinkie Pie called after the rainbow pony

No. Haters. Deal with it.